“Dave Moore has a fine capacity to stimulate all the glands of curiosity.”

The Late William F. Buckley

Best-Selling Author and TV Personality

“Dave’s ability to prompt and encourage a thoughtful approach to one’s life is a unique gift. His teaching has been the recent catalyst for my own desire to grow in all areas of life.”

Cody Carlson

Former NFL Quarterback
(Houston Oilers, 1988-94)

“I have personally benefited from Dave’s counsel. His wisdom emanates in part from being firmly rooted in eternal truth, while also being a keen observer and student of modern culture. He is thoughtful, extraordinarily well read, and of the highest integrity. I count him as a trusted advisor, guide, and friend.

Dave Moore is able to ask all the right questions and, using the best guidance system known to man, help people to come to the answers that are right for them. His insights are deep, and his perspective is powerfully practical. I heartily recommend him as an unusually wise guide to personal growth and noble service!

The San Francisco 49’ers enjoyed great success in the 80’s and 90’s: 10 NFC Championship games and winning five Super Bowls. Much of the underpinning of the team’s success came from faith, trust and extraordinary relationships. Dave Moore was a contributor to this foundation by his insightful messages delivered at several pre-game chapels for our players and coaches. As the chaplain of those successful teams, and a public speaker myself, I recommend Dave as a speaker at your next event. His scholarly wisdom is never off-putting. He uses wisdom, wit and practicality to deliver important messages; so profound theologians consult him, so useful even football guys understand him!

I originally hired Dave Moore in 2004 as my personal executive coach. Since then Dave has been meeting one-on-one or in focus group settings with all of our 70+ corporate employees. His insight into relational development has been instrumental in the strengthening of our company’s culture. No other individual person or organization has had the positive impact on the company or myself personally as Dave.
