

ENDORSEMENTS

"I am thankful for the Bible-centered ministry of David Moore, with his wise insight into contemporary trends in the culture and the church."

Wayne Grudem

Research Professor of Theology and Bible
Phoenix Seminary

"I am encouraged that Dave Moore has inaugurated Two Cities Ministries. Two particular qualifications he has for engaging the two cities in dialogue are strong orthodox convictions and seasoned understanding. Dave is a historical evangelical with a firm grasp of his indebtedness to the great Christian minds in the whole church through the ages; his convictions concerning the sole authority of Scripture involve an informed interaction with the epistemological challenges of modernity and post-modernity; his commitment to the infinite superiority of the eternal to the temporal have led him to invest a sense of urgency in every aspect of our lives in this age. Both his mind and his heart will provide an edifying challenge to those who come into contact with his ministry."

Tom J. Nettles

Professor of Historical Theology
The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary

"David Moore, my good friend of more than thirty years, is a man of unquestioned integrity and godly character. He values sound doctrine and expresses it clearly with balance and insight. He models a devotion to Christ, family, and friends that makes him a natural leader and a treasured co-laborer in ministry."

Robert A. Pyne

Former Professor of Systematic Theology at Dallas Theological Seminary
Senior Director for Community Engagement, St. Norbert College

"Dave Moore has a gift unique in evangelical circles today: a rigorous intellect refined by a compassionate heart. If the kingdom of God is to penetrate the increasingly dark places of post-modern despair, it will be through servants like Mr. Moore who combine searching theological critique with the love of Christ."

Timothy B. Savage

Senior Pastor
Camelback Bible Church

"David is an excellent student, and a fine communicator. He writes and speaks clearly and well. I would rate David as in the top 5% of all the graduate students with whom I have worked in 24 years of teaching."

Frederic R. Howe

Professor of Systematic Theology, Emeritus
Dallas Theological Seminary

"I have participated in several Ezra Institute classes, focusing upon theology. Dave Moore is an outstanding teacher of powerful intellect and a man after God's own heart. The classes are challenging, stimulating, and rigorous, far beyond the typical Sunday school class or group Bible study. They give the student a serious study of theology and God's Word. They prepare the layman for serious engagement of the other side. Ezra is filling a real education and ministry need. I am supporting it and Dave's ministry with my own financial commitment."

Larry Garner

Professor of Management
Tarleton State University

"I am excited about Dave's beginning of Two Cities Ministries because it represents a beautiful blend of his ability to reach people's hearts and minds. Seldom have I met a man whom God has blessed with such outstanding speaking, writing, and critical thinking gifts. Dave Moore is such a man. I love the way he leads. I love the way he serves. You will too. He is seeking to be like Jesus: full of grace and truth."

Steve Shadrach

Founder
Student Mobilization

"During our time at Stanford University working together on the staff team of Campus Crusade for Christ, Dave not only exhibited a passion to tackle the deep and difficult issues of life, but showed himself to be a compassionate shepherd of souls. He did not engage in empty philosophizing, but sought to challenge the prevailing humanistic world view at Stanford. In the midst of often difficult conditions, he also showed himself to be a caring and wise leader of our team. I believe that our team's effectiveness can be directly traced to his strong and perseverant leadership. I am sure that he will continue to be a faithful follower of Jesus Christ and an effective leader of men wherever he continues to minister."

Brooke Butler

Country Director
Campus Crusade for Christ
Zagreb, Croatia

"I am excited about the unique ministry which Dave Moore exercises through Two Cities Ministries. Dave is uniquely gifted as a biblical thinker, a careful theologian, and clear communicator of spiritual reality. I worked with Dave a number of years during his tenure as campus director at Stanford University for Campus Crusade for Christ. Dave was involved in the life of our church while I was serving as campus minister at Stanford for Peninsula Bible Church. Dave often taught for us in our college and university ministry with great effectiveness."

Doug Goins

Former Pastor/Teacher
Peninsula Bible Church

"Dave Moore is a dedicated scholar and a lover of God and people. I am regularly challenged by both his heart and his mind. His devotion to Christ and his willingness to engage the issues of the day are greatly needed in our world. Rarely do I encounter individuals who do a good job balancing properly the ideas of taking God seriously and themselves less seriously. Dave Moore encourages others through his love for Christ, his attentiveness to the Word of God, his awareness of the issues of the day, and also through his splendid sense of humor. Dave Moore is a gifted thinker who loves God with his whole heart. He has a wonderful ability to humbly approach an issue or topic. He is dedicatedly guided by the Scriptures and yet restrained from presuming he commands them. May his lot increase for Christ's sake!"

Roger Berry

Vice President
UBS Financial

"For many years, my opportunities for ministry brought me into frequent contact and relationship with David Moore. Now, at this stage of my life, I am able to frequently interact with ministry partners and associates around the world who have also had that privilege, and often a reference to David (and Doreen) is made. Invariably, the conversation will reflect upon mutually perceived values of having been associated with David and the qualities which he brings to Christian life and ministry. Character and devotion immediately come to mind when mentioning David. The book of Proverbs gives great value to the man who would seek to live life with wisdom and understanding. It also offers warning for those who would choose to ignore the imperatives of seeking God and wise living. David has always exemplified one who desires to make the right choices. He builds His life upon the Word of God, and his personal character reflects this commitment. Personal disciplines are necessary to maintain a walk with the Savior and to attain a position of speaking to modern-day issues and life. I know of few men who so model a life of constant devotion to following Christ, applying the Word to life, and obeying its instruction. Whether it is remaining constant in his devotional life, studying the scriptures to be able to know God and His heart, or laboring diligently to become learned and circumspect regarding particular issues, David is able to bring both personal example and knowledgeable perspective to his conversation and teaching."
